The screenshot shows a web browser window with the address bar displaying `https://login.microsoftonline.com/common/login`. The page content is a Microsoft login interface. A central dialog box is displayed, featuring the Microsoft logo at the top left. Below the logo, the email address `testssso@randallgt.onmicrosoft.com` is shown. The main heading of the dialog is "Permissions requested". Underneath, it identifies the application as "ALSO ACMP SSO" and notes that it is "unverified". A warning message states: "This application is not published by Microsoft or your organization." Below this, it lists the permissions the app requests: "View your basic profile" and "Maintain access to data you have given it access to". At the bottom of the dialog, there is a disclaimer: "Accepting these permissions means that you allow this app to use your data as specified in their terms of service and privacy statement. The publisher has not provided links to their terms for you to review. You can change these permissions at https://myapps.microsoft.com. Show details". A question follows: "Does this app look suspicious? Report it here". At the very bottom of the dialog are two buttons: "Cancel" and "Accept". The "Accept" button is highlighted with a yellow border. In the bottom right corner of the browser window, there are links for "Terms of use" and "Privacy & cookies".
